PLANS MADE FOR LOCKS WIFE AND MEMORIAL SUNDAY CHILD FROM HOME

Grand Army Services in Post Room. Strewing of Flowers in Catholic Cemetery. Special Sermons in Town Churches.

Final plans are being made for the observance of Memorial Sunday in Gettysburg on May 28th when the members of Corporal Skelly Post 9, and other Civil War veterans, will again pay tribute to their departed comrades.

The exercises in the Post Room will be held at two o'clock in the afternoon and the sermon will be preached by Rev. W. R. Glen, pastor of the Memorial U. B. church. The remainder of the program will include the reading of the war records of the comrades who have died during the past year, the usual Post service, singing, and prayer.

Immediately after the service in the Post Room is concluded there will take place the strewing of flowers on the graves of the Civil War veterans who are buried in the Catholic cemetery. There will be the usual procession to the cemetery in which veterans and members of the various Catholic societies will participate. Brief services will be held at the cross in the cemetery.

In the evening a special memorial sermon will be preached in St. Francis Xavier church, likely by a priest from another town. Rev. W. F. Boyle, the local pastor, is endeavoring now to secure some one of note to preach that evening and the address will be along memorial and patriotic lines.

It is also planned to have the veterans and members of the local patriotic orders attend service in the Presbyterian church on the 28th. It has not been decided whether the morning or evening hour will be the one which they will select.

All the details of the celebration here on May 30th have been completed. There will be the usual procession to the National Cemetery, the strewing of flowers, and the address at the rostrum will be made by Congressman Gardner, of Massachusetts.

The railroads announce the usual excursions on that day and there will be six or eight special trains run to this place. Large crowds, however, are not anticipated from this source, due to the fact that the speaker is not a man of more prominence. The motor traffic will be large, unless weather conditions are unfavorable.

MANY GAMES

College Wins in Tennis and Track Events. High School Athletics.

Three victories were scored and two defeats sustained by Gettysburg's athletic teams on Saturday.

The college track team defeated Bucknell on Nixon Field 65½ to 45½, taking eight of the thirteen firsts. Sheffer took all the weight events and Hefflinger won the short dashes. The college tennis team won all four matches from Western Maryland College in easy fashion. The base ball nine lost to the Hagerstown Blue Ridge team 7-2.

The high school base ball team won from the normal school reserves at Shippensburg 5-4. The high school tennis team lost at Hanover, the boys splitting even in their six matches but the girls losing 4-2. Shoop and Miller won their singles and Miller and Stewart their doubles. For the girls Eunice Rudisill won her match while Flossie Shultz and Margaret Stewart won their doubles. Almost all the matches were close, and included duce sets.

UNION MEETING

Will Take First Steps toward Revival in October.

A meeting of ministers and laymen from the town and county will be held in St. James church at 7:30 this evening to make preliminary plans for the big evangelistic campaign here next fall. Rev. F. T. Cartwright, representing the Nicholson-Henninger party, will address the meeting.

Joseph Shorb Held for Court on Charge of Assaulting his Wife, with Intent to Kill. Kept Both out of the House.

Joseph Shorb, about 54 years old, of near Emmitsburg, has been arrested and taken before Justice C. H. Eckstein, charged with assaulting his wife with intent to kill. He was held for the action of the grand jury in the sum of $200 bail. After securing bail he was released.

Shorb's wife, Mrs. Mary Shorb, and several of their children, appeared against him. Mrs. Shorb stated that she and her children had been chased from home a number of times by her husband, who finally got a gun and threatened to kill her. One by one, she said, her children were compelled to leave, until only she and the youngest remained.

A few days ago, she testified, he went to Emmitsburg, and, after several hours of drinking, returned and compelled her and their child to get out of bed and leave the house. She went to the home of her son, a short distance away, and remained there until the next day. When she returned she found the doors barred and the windows nailed fast and was unable to get into the house. Her husband then appeared and ordered her away under threat of bodily harm. Fearing that he might carry out his threats she had him arrested.

Shorb did not have much to say. After nailing shut the doors and windows he went away and warned his wife not to attempt to open the house. As the property belongs to Mrs. Shorb, Justice Eckstein told her to open the house and if he threatened again to molest her he would be locked up.

Mrs. Shorb did not appear anxious to prosecute her husband, but matters had reached a point, she said, that she was compelled to act for the protection of herself and children. He behaved himself, she stated, until he got to drinking, and his drinking spells of late became very frequent. His daughter, Mary Shorb, 18 years old, who was compelled to leave home and is now living with friends, corroborated what her mother said and so did her son, William Shorb. The latter was run away from home some time ago because he attempted to defend his mother against his father's abuse.

Sheriff Roderick started to take Shorb to jail, but he later found some one to go his bail. He has been employed at the mill of Daniel Zentz, near Emmitsburg, and it is said that he is a good workman as long as he keeps sober.

HEAVY ROLLER OVER HIS BODY

East Berlin Farmer Seriously Injured when Horses became Unmanageable. His Head Alone Escapes Wounds.

John Gruver, 50 years old, a farmer residing near East Berlin, was severely injured Saturday when he was knocked down by a team of runaway horses and a 500 pound land roller passed over his body.

He is suffering from an injury to his hip, bruises about his legs and side of body, and probably internal injuries.

Mr. Gruver had finished rolling the land and was unitching the horses. With one of the traces still fastened the horses reared and plunged and ran about, throwing Mr. Gruver underneath their feet. The horses tramped on the man and the heavy roller passed over his entire body as far as the shoulder, just escaping his head.

Henry Kellenberger, a neighbor, who witnessed the accident, rushed to Mr. Gruver, who was unconscious. The latter was later assisted to the house and an East Berlin physician summoned. The injured man is confined to bed. His condition to-day was reported as being improved.

BEWARE OF TYPHOID

Says Dr. Samuel Dixon in his Weekly Talk on Health Topics.

Precautions against vacation typhoid are urged by Commissioner of Health Dr. Samuel G. Dixon in his weekly health talk. He points out that there are hundreds of deaths and thousands of cases of typhoid fever in the United States each summer and fall because of failure to observe some very simple rules. The commissioner says:

"Now that the vacation season is approaching, when the town folks will seek rest from their daily toils in the realms of nature, a word of warning against indiscreet drinking of the waters of the State.

"While thousands of pollutions have been removed from our streams, it will take years to correct the evils that have been growing ever since our civilization began in this country. If you desire to avoid typhoid fever this coming season, co-operate with those working to improve the health conditions.

"In your travels never depend upon the celebrated town pump, the clearness of a stream or the sparkling waters offered by the wayside dweller to quench your thirst, unless you know of the purity of the water. Depend upon what you carry with you, or if camping, boil the water before using it for domestic purposes. It is better not to indulge in water cooled with natural ice from an unknown source.

"Do not clean your teeth, rinse your mouth or wash vegetables or fruit to be eaten raw in unknown waters without first boiling it for ten or fifteen minutes.

"There are thousands of deaths and thousands of cases of typhoid fever in the United States each summer and fall because of failure to observe these precautions.

"If you send your family to a summer resort without assuring yourself of the purity and safety of the water supply you may be risking their lives."

MISTAKEN IDEA ABOUT PENSIONS

Congressman Beales Tells about Prevailing Notion that Soldiers' Widows are Entitled to Twenty Dollars a Month.

Correcting a wrong impression seemingly prevalent here, that widows of Civil War veterans are now entitled to $20 a month pension, Congressman C. William Beales states that no change has yet been made in the general pension legislation under the present congress. Mr. Beales is of the opinion that people are probably confused by the fact that the Ashbrook bill, which provides for widows' pensions increase, has been reported favorably to the house of representatives by the committee on invalid pensions, and will probably be passed before the adjournment of congress.

The Ashbrook bill will, if passed, increase the pension of a widow who was the lawful wife of a soldier during the period of his service in the Civil War, from $12 to $20 per month. This cares for the so-called war widows. Since the average age of Civil War soldiers was 18 years, the per cent of soldiers who were married previous to or during their service in the war is thought to be insignificant, and the surviving widows comparatively few.

In addition, the measure provides for a pension of $20 per month for Civil War widows who have now reached or "who may hereafter reach" the age of 70 years. They may be now on the pension rolls or their names "may hereafter be placed thereon." The house of representatives has passed a bill giving a pension of $12 per month to the widows of Spanish War soldiers, or of men who fought in the Philippine insurrection or in China.

By provisions of the Ashbrook bill, all widows of Civil War soldiers who were dropped or who may hereafter be dropped from the pension roll by reason of their marriage to other persons; who are now or who may become widows by reason of the death of their husbands; or who may be divorced upon their own application, are restored to their former pensionable status.

Had such widows not remarried, Mr. Beales says, they would have continued to draw widow's pensions. In its report on the bill the house committee ventures the opinion that the widows' marriage resulted in a saving to the government, and that no pension legislation should discriminate or operate against marriage. Its members are of the opinion that existing restrictions should be repealed.

VILLAGE TO BOOM

Bank, Water System, and Factory are Assured.

It was announced some time ago on the authority of Dr. Kharis, a Harrisburg promoter, that Mont Alto, would have, in the near future, a shirt factory, state bank, water system and, in all probability, electric lights furnished by the Waynesboro Electric Light and Power Company. Some people were a little skeptical at first as regards these propositions, but they have since changed their minds. At least three of these propositions are now a practical reality, namely, the factory, bank and water system, light question as good as settled. A munition plant is also talked of for Mont Alto.

MARRIED IN MISSISSIPPI

Robert N. Stahle and Miss Anderson Wedded Last Thursday. Ceremony at Bride's Home.

Announcements were received here this morning of the marriage at Picken, Mississippi, of Miss 'Retta' Anderson and Robert Nevin Stahle. The marriage took place last Thursday. Mr. Stahle is a son of Mrs. Thomas J. Stahle, of Baltimore street, and has a wide circle of friends in Gettysburg to whom the following, from an account of the wedding which appeared in the "Jackson Daily News", will be of interest:

Mr. Stahle is well known in both business and social circles in Jackson having been connected for some time with the Oulliber Coffee Company of New Orleans and during this connection he has made his home in this city and Clarksdale, and midway between the progressive points he found, in the picturesque village of Picken, the lovely young girl who this morning became his happy bride; Rev. E. T. Mobberly, the pastor of the bride's family, consecrating the rites in the most impressive manner, in the presence of a small company of friends, with the relatives of the radiant young bride.

Miss Anderson was beautifully gowned in a tailored suit of new blue Gabardine, and carried the groom's tribute-of-the-hour, a splendid cluster of Killarney roses, the contrast between their rose shades and the blue of her gown being most effective.

After the impressive marriage service, a buffet luncheon was served to the intimate circle present, and immediately afterward Mr. and Mrs. Stahle left for New Orleans and the Gulf Coast to spend their honeymoon days.

BANDITS RAID TEXAS TOWNS

Mexicans Kill Four, Wound Two and Kidnap Five.

WERE TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Soldiers Who Escaped Put Up Hard
Battle Against Heavy Odds—Patrol
Camp Burned.

Ey Paso, Tex., May 8.—The American patrol at Glen Springs, Texas, consisting of nine soldiers, was almost wiped out in a raid by Mexican bandits, supposedly Villalistas, a cross the border Friday night, according to an official report received by General Funston from Lieutenant C. R. Norton, Fourteenth Cavalry, at Alpine, sent via Fort Sam Houston.

Three soldiers, Cohen, Cole and Rogers, and one civilian, the young son of O. G. Compton, were killed, and two soldiers, Birk and Defrees, were wounded. In addition, three soldiers and two civilians whose names were given as Compton and Gove, have been missing since the fight. The civilians are believed to have been kidnaped and carried south of the international boundary.

The number of raiders is uncertain, reports placing the numbers from fifty to 200. They set fire to the patrol camp and fired on the troops as they tried to escape in the dark. The bandits then looted Glen Springs, robbing the store, and in this operation the casualties to civilians occurred.

Glen Springs is in the Big Bend country, along the Rio Grande, probably 150 miles east of El Paso and about eighty-five miles from the railroad line at Marathon and Alpine.

The same band of Mexicans are reported on Saturday morning to have raided Boquillas, and then to have crossed back into Mexico, taking with them a storekeeper, named Demers.

The troops of the Eighth Cavalry from El Paso and two troops of the Fourteenth Cavalry, from Fort Clark, ten miles north of Spofford, have been ordered by General Funston to take special trains to Marathon, the railway station nearest to Glen Springs. They will have to march eighty-five miles to reach the scene of the raid.

Colonel Frederick W. Sibley, commander of the Fourteenth Cavalry, will proceed from Clark to take command of the troops proceeding to Glen Springs and Boquillas. He will very likely cross into Mexico in pursuit of the bandits.

The fact that pursuit would not stop at the border was stated authoritatively by Major General Frederick Funston.

At department headquarters it was said there would be no waiting, not a moment's unnecessary delay which might give the Mexicans time to escape in safety, and that when the column moved it would ride long and fast and strike hard.

The raid itself was spectacular. Out of a mass of conflicting reports, difficult to untangle because of lack of quick communication with the attacked area, the following seemed to be the facts:

"Two hundred Carranza troops, stationed almost across the Rio Grande from Boquillas, two hundred miles southeast of here and nine miles from the river, revolted Friday, seized their arms, ammunition and mounts, and disappeared. Friday night about ten o'clock they crossed the river at Terlingua, near Boquillas, and rode to Glen Springs, several miles from Boquillas, where a detachment of nine men of the Fourteenth Cavalry was encamped.

At 11:30 o'clock the Mexicans charged into Glen Springs, shouting for Carranza and Villa and began setting fire to buildings and looting.

At the same time they attacked the cavalrymen's camp, setting fire to the one big tent almost immediately. Sergeant Smith commanding the detachment quickly placed his handful of men in line and a desperate resistance began. The Americans fought with desperation. They were aided by the few civilians in the town. Rifles flashed for more than an hour.

Three soldiers were killed and four wounded, including Sergeant Smith and a private, who were burned while trying to put out the flames at their tent.

In the meantime a ten-year-old boy, a Glen Springs resident, was killed. Finding themselves worsted, the civilians and the remaining soldiers withdrew to the nearby hills and continued the fighting. Sergeant Smith, with great coolness and bravery, insisted on loading his wounded on a motor truck and conveying them out of danger.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR WOMAN LEADER

Was Condemned to Death, But Penalty is Commuted.

Dublin, May 8.—Countess Georgiana Markievicz, one of the prominent figures in the Irish revolt, was sentenced to death after her trial by court-martial, but the sentence has been commuted to penal servitude for life, it was officially announced.

The death sentence upon Henry O'Hanrahan also was commuted to life term.

Death sentences imposed upon George Plunkett and John Plunkett, brothers of Joseph Plunkett, who was executed last week, have been commuted to ten years penal servitude.

The death sentence imposed upon Philip Cosgrave, after a trial by the court-martial that is passing upon the cases of the Irish rebels has been commuted to five years imprisonment and the sentence of thirteen others to three years imprisonment.

No official figures have yet been issued on the deaths of civilians in the recent revolt, but 160 already have been accounted for. The list is still incomplete, because it is known that many of the dead have not been registered in any place open to public inspection.

COST OF FOOD IN NEW YORK

Family of Five Must Pay $7.30 a Week for Wholesome Diet.

New York, May 8.—Wholesome and nutritious food for a family of five cannot be purchased in the New York market for less than $7.20 a week, according to calculations made by the department of health of the city of New York.

The articles included in the list of foods were selected with great care to provide a well-balanced diet at a very low cost.

The chief items of expense are for: two pounds of meat daily at twenty cents a pound, two loaves of bread at eight cents each, two quarts of milk at seven cents, two dozen eggs a week at thirty cents and one pound of butter at forty cents. It has been found by experiments that the diet proposed will provide approximately 9500 calories a day and 450 grams of protein a day.

600 RUSS DIE AS TRANSPORT SINKS

Troops En Route For France
Go Down.

BIG SHIP HITS A MINE

Germans Again Fail in Terrific
Attack on Hill No. 304 on Verdun Front.

Berlin, May 8.—Six hundred Russian troops are reported to have been lost when an allied transport struck a mine and sank in the Mediterranean late in April, says the Overseas News agency. It is stated that advices from Corfu give details of the disaster. Nearly all the Russian troops on board were drowned. The transport was lost about the same time as the British battle ship Russell struck a mine in the Mediterranean.

Germans Again Fail in Hill Attack.

Paris, May 8.—The great battle for Hill No. 304, the height which dominates the Verdun battle front west of the Meuse river, continued through the night, according to the official statement of the war office.

The hill was violently bombarded all night by German guns. The crown prince made no attempt to resume his infantry attacks, however.

The repulse of a strong German reconnaissance south of St. Mihiel and a successful surprise attack on a patrolling force near Lanfroicourt, in Lorraine, are also reported, as is the breakdown of a strong German attack on French trenches near Lihons, south of the Somme. The text of the statement is as follows:

"South of the Somme the Germans after an intense artillery preparation, made an attack on our trenches south of Lihons. They were stopped by our curtain of fire and their forces dispersed before they reached our entanglements.

"In the region of Verdun the night was marked only by a continuous and violent bombardment in the region of Hill No. 304, and of the Haudeumont sector at the Thiaumont farm.

"South of St. Mihiel, we repulsed a strong enemy reconnaissance which attempted to attack one of our small posts to the east of Bisle.

"In the Lorraine, we surprised a patrol which was crossed the Selloe sector near Lanfroicourt, Southeast of Normandy. We brought back with us fourteen prisoners.

"During the course of a wind squall about twenty of our captive balloons broke away from their moorings. Some of them were carried to the German lines. Others came down within our own lines. Most of the observers were able to descend back of our lines through the use of their parachutes. We are without news of a few of them who were carried into the enemy's zone."

Afterward the captain returned to his home, killed his wife and committed suicide.

JIMENEZ RESIGNS, REACE RESTORED

Quits to Prevent Intervention
by the U. S.

Santo Domingo, May 8.—General Juan Jimenez, president of Santo Domingo, has resigned.

He took this action to prevent armed intervention by the United States. Quiet has been restored. Congress will appoint a provisional president.

The situation growing out of the attempt to overthrow the administration of President Jimenez, which resulted in an outbreak of hostilities here on Friday, continued critical up to the moment the president resigned. The notification given William W. Russell, the American minister, that armed intervention would come within seventy-two hours unless hostilities between the opposing factions ceased, was unofficial, but was considered a plain warning and an official note is expected to follow.

The result of the activities of the commission appointed in an endeavor to induce President Jimenez and General Arias to settle their differences, was long negative. The proposition of General Arias to surrender on condition that the president resign, was carried to President Jimenez, but at first the president refused to consider other terms than the surrender of the capital which he stipulated must take place within twenty-four hours.

There was much excitement among the population over the situation.

COAL TO BE 18 CENTS MORE

This is Operators' Increase; Retail Price May be Higher.

Philadelphia, May 8.—Anthracite operators have under consideration the new scale of anthracite coal prices at the mines under the new four-year agreement with the miners dating from April 1, and announcement of the new prices will probably be made today.

None of the local operators or coal company presidents who could be seen would make a forecast as to the new anthracite prices. They contented themselves by saying that the advance in prices to be made would be based on the increased wages granted the miners and the eight-hour work-day, which it has been estimated involves an average increase in the cost of mining (all sizes) throughout the anthracite region of eighteen cents a ton.

The estimate in the increased cost of mining does not embrace higher cost for material, such as timber, rails, powder, etc., and expenses of the compensation law, and with the increase in mining resulting from the eight-hour day and higher wages granted the miners will be considered in the make-up of the new scale of anthracite prices.

Baltimore, Md., May 8.—Carrying five passengers, a hydroaeroplane which left Newport News, Va., reached Fort McHenry, Baltimore. The machine followed the bay, the route covering 173 miles, and was buffeted by a stiff head gale all the way. The wind was so strong, Pilot E. T. McAuley said, that at times the craft was brought to a standstill.

A NOTED ORGANIST

Gettysburg is Given Rare Treat in Visit of Gatty Sellars.

After repeated requests the world-famed English organist-composer, Gatty Sellars, revisits the United States for a limited period, and plays on Friday, May 12, at the Methodist church. On his last American tour a "World Record" was established in 500 recitals being given in direct succession, 75,000 miles covered, strange organs visited, frequently without rehearsal (owing to train delays), and programs played entirely from memory.

Appearing on the greatest organs in the country the recitals attracted the largest audiences for an organ recital in the history of most of the cities visited. On the present tour it is anticipated that again many of the auditoriums will be all too small to accommodate the immense numbers that these performances have drawn in the past.—advertisement

TUESDAY EVENING

The following is one of the many testimonials concerning Mrs. McCoy, who appears in the Court House Tuesday evening: Mrs. McCoy gave "The Man Who Forgot" in the auditorium of Miami University to a large audience, and it was most enthusiastically received. In fact, in this university and college town, with our three schools of higher education, with lectures and entertainments of various kinds almost every night, this was the hit of the season.—advertisement

WILSON POLICIES WILL BE ADOPTED

Democratic Platform to Consist of President's Measures.

FOREIGN POLICY IMPORTANT

Conditions Existing at Time Convention Meets Will Largely Shape Future Action—Some of the Measures That Are Expected to Get Strong Indorsement at St. Louis Gathering.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, May 8.—[Special.]—The Democratic national convention is not going to have much difficulty in adopting a platform. It will contain all the Wilson policies which have been presented in congress, no matter whether they have been enacted into law or not.

The most important of these declarations will be in regard to the administration's foreign policy and the Mexican question. Just how far the platform will go and how emphatic a declaration it will be may be left to the consideration of the resolutions committee, which will be guided by the foreign situation at the time the convention meets.

There are Democrats who support the president's vigorous attitude toward Germany. They also say he has been vigorous enough toward Great Britain and the allies. But these may be in the minority. There are also Democrats who have favored a more vigorous Mexican policy, but they will be challenged by the assertion that nothing could be more vigorous than sending troops into Mexico to punish the marauders who have violated American rights.

Legislative Policies.

Among the legislative policies of the administration which will receive strong indorsement are army and navy preparedness, the various conservation measures, rural credits, good roads and a number of other measures which have been under discussion and have had the approval of a majority of the Democrats.

Some of these bills will not become law before the convention meets, but that will be immaterial, as they will be a part of the Democratic policy, and the party will be pledged to see that they are enacted into law. The whole platform of the Democrats is to be an affirmative approval of all of the Wilson policies and the legislative program which has been proposed by the Democrats in caucus.

Was One of the Whiskered.

Former Congressman Binger Hermann of Oregon went into the house the other day, and scarcely anybody knew him, although there were a great many members who served with him. His appearance was so completely changed by his clean shaved face that he looked like a different man. In Hermann's time whiskers were more in order than at present, particularly by the western men. Oregon was especially noted for whiskers then, as Senators Dolph and Mitchell and Hermann's colleague, Hiss, and him self were "bearded like the bear." Hermann says the styles are changing, but his friends accused him of a desire to look young.

Son-in-law a Standpatter.

While the Lodge son-in-law, Congressman Gardner of Massachusetts, is an ardent advocate of the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt, there is another son-in-law, Nick Longworth, who has nothing to say on the subject, although everybody believes that he would be glad to see his father-in-law again in the White House. But Nick is a standpatter first of all. He is one of the men who did not follow the colonel into the Progressive camp, and it so happened that a Progressive caused his defeat in 1912.

Rules of the Senate.

Notwithstanding the pressure of business the senate frequently has time to discuss proposed amendments to the rules. One day Senator Clarke of Arkansas, who is the president pro tem, and recognized as one of the best parliamentarians in the senate, remarked, "I am gradually getting into the state of mind where I believe the rules of the senate must get worse in order to get better." After further remarks about how the senate operates he went on to say, "I think the way to bring about a change is to abuse the rules to a point of nullification, to a point where they will become absolutely absurd, and that point is not far away now."

Not For Dirt Roads.

"I am strongly in favor of this bill as compared to the bill which was sent us from the house," said Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, discussing the good roads bill. "I trust that the senator from Alabama (Bankhead), with his well known strong personality and influence, will see to it that we do not have a bill come back from conference which provides for nothing but dirt roads all over the country." And then, as if to give a warning of what might happen to the conference report, the New Hampshire senator added, "If such a bill comes back some considerable time will be consumed—if some of us are alive."

Cat and Hawk Fight.

Once upon a time while a number of kittens were playing about in the straw near a barn door a large hawk swooped down upon them and seized one of the kittens. Being heavily burdened, it could not rise very promptly, and the mother cat had time to come to the rescue. She never hesitated about attacking the hawk, and the bird, in self defense, was obliged to drop the kitten. Then a real pitched battle took place. The cat lost one eye and part of an ear, but succeeded in breaking the wing of the hawk. Then the cat sprang in again and, after a long struggle, killed the bird. Not bad for a cat.

RURAL CREDITS BILL UP

House Begins Consideration of Measure Backed by President.

Washington, May 8.—Rural credits legislation, part of President Wilson's legislative program, and already favorably acted upon by the senate, was started on its way through the house. Debate probably will continue most of this week under a special rule adopted in order to expedite the measure.

There are several differences in the senate bill and that reported by the house banking committee, which will have to be worked out in conference. Each, however, provides for a chain of land banks, through which loans would be made on mortgages.

The special rule adopted provides for continuous consideration of the measure until disposed of, except that it shall not interfere with the army bill conference report.

OLD TIME COURT OPENING.

"Boys, Come In." Was the Call When the Judge Was Ready.

"Oyez! Oyez! Oyez! Know ye all that the honorable circuit court of Peoria county now stands convened pursuant to adjournment."

This is the impressive ceremony used and the words spoken aloud when circuit court judges step to the bench. In federal courts all spectators and attaches are required to arise and remain standing until the court has been seated.

In the days of 1818 to 1830 things were different, as early historical records show, observes the Peoria Tribune. Records of those days show one incident in which Judge John Reynolds was seated on the circuit bench, in Washington county when the following was the procedure:

"Foyes, come in. Our John is going to hold court," the sheriff said to the spectators, jurors and attorneys who had gathered on the grass in the courthouse yard.

The courts in those days were held mostly in log houses or in barrooms of village taverns fitted up for the purpose, with a temporary bench for the court and benches and chairs for the jurors, lawyers and spectators. In general, the judges were adverse to rendering decisions on points of law and preferred to submit all questions to the jurors for a decision.

One instance is cited when attorneys requested the court to instruct the jurors on questions of law. The judge, after rubbing his head and face with his hands and reflecting a few moments, said to the lawyers:

"Why, gentlemen, the jury understand it; they need no instructions; no doubt they will do justice in this case."

Cruikshank's Long Artistic Life.

In 1863 Cruikshank, the great artist, was asked by the committee who exhibited his "Worship of Baalshus" to associate with that work some of his early drawings in order to prove that he was not his own grandfather—Chesson's "Cruikshank."

Exams.

On being asked how many persons were saved in Noah's ark one student replied, "We all of us were." The question, "Why does a blacksmith heat an iron tire before putting it on the wheel?" received from one boy who apparently thought it a "catch" question, the answer, "He doesn't."

CHAPTER V.

"Question."

MALONE was at his post, as usual, when I got to the Gazette office.

"Well," he cried expectantly, "what may it run to? I'm thinking, young man, you have been in the wars. Don't tell me that he assaulted you."

"We had a little difference at first."

"What a man it is! What did you do?"

"Well, he became more reasonable, and we had a chat. But I got nothing out of him—nothing for publication."

"I'm not sure about that. You got a black eye out of him, and that's for publication. Mr. Malone. We must bring the man to his bearings. I'll have a leaderette on him tomorrow that will raise a blister. Just give me the material and I will engage to brand the fellow forever. Professor Munchausen—how's that for an instant headline? Sir John Mandeville redivivus—Cagliostro—all the impostors and bullies in history. I'll show him up for the fraud he is."

"I wouldn't do that, sir."

"Why not?"

"Because he is not a fraud at all."

"What?" roared McArdle. "You don't mean to say you really believe this stuff of his about mammoths and mastodons and great sea serpents?"

"Well, I don't know about that. I don't think he makes any claims of that kind. But I do believe he has got something new."

"Then, for heaven's sake, man, write it up!"

"I'm longing to, but all I know he gave me in confidence and on condition that I didn't. I condensed into a few sentences the professor's narrative. That's how it stands."

McArdle looked deeply incredulous.

"Well, Mr. Malone," he said at last, "about this scientific meeting tonight. There can be no privacy about that, anyhow. I don't suppose any paper will want to report it, for Waldron has been reported already a dozen times, and no one is aware that Challenger will speak. We may get a scoop if we are lucky. You'll be there in any case, so you'll just give us a pretty full report. I'll keep space up to midnight."

When I met Tarp Henry at the Savage club he was skeptical in the extreme, but he promised to come to the meeting.

When we arrived at the hall we found a much greater concourse than I had expected. A line of electric broughams discharged their little cargoes of white bearded professors, while the dark stream of humbler pedestrians who crowded through the arched doorway showed that the audience would be popular as well as scientific. Indeed, it became evident to us as soon as we had taken our seats that a youthful and even boyish spirit was abroad in the gallery and the back portions of the hall. Looking behind me, I could see rows of faces of the familiar medical student type. Apparently the great hospitals had each sent down their contingent. There was a great demonstration on the entrance of Professor Challenger when he passed down to take his place at the extreme end of the front row of the platform. Such a yell of welcome broke forth when his black beard first protruded round the corner that I began to suspect Tarp Henry was right in his surmise and that this assemblage was there not merely for the sake of the lecture, but because it had got rumored abroad that the famous professor would take part in the proceedings.

There was some sympathetic laughter on his entrance among the front benches of well dressed spectators as though the demonstration of the students in this instance was not unwelcome to them. That greeting was, indeed, a delightful outburst of sound, the uproar of the carnivora cage when the step of the bucket bearing keeper is heard in the distance. There was an offensive tone in it, perhaps, and yet in the main it struck me as more riotous outcry, the noisy reception of one who amused and interested them, rather than of one they disliked or despised.

There was a hush over the hall, the students rigid with delight at seeing the high gods on Olympus quarreling among themselves. Challenger levered his bulky figure slowly out of his chair. "I must in turn ask you, Mr. Waldron," he said, "to cease to make assertions which are not in strict accordance with scientific fact."

The words unleashed a tempest. "Shame! Shame!" "Give him a hearing!" "Put him out!" "Shove him off the platform!" "Fair play!" emerged from a general roar of amusement or exclamation. The chairman was on his feet flapping both his hands and bleating excitedly. "Professor Challenger—personal—views—later," were the solid peaks above his clouds of inaudible mutter. The interrupter bowed, smiled, stroked his beard and relapsed into his chair. Waldron, very flushed and warlike, continued his observations. Now and then as he made an assertion he shot a venomous glance at his opponent, who seemed to be slumbering deeply, with the same broad, happy smile upon his face.

At last the lecture came to an end. I am inclined to think that it was a premature one, as the peroration was hurried and disconnected. The thread of the argument had been rudely broken, and the audience was restless and expectant. Waldron sat down, and after a chirrup from the chairman Professor Challenger rose and advanced to the edge of the platform. In the interests of my paper I took down his speech verbatim.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he began amid a sustained interruption from the back. "I beg pardon—ladies, gentlemen and children. I must apologize. I had inadvertently omitted a considerable section of this audience." (Tumult, during which the professor stood with one hand raised and his enormous head nodding sympathetically as if he were bestowing a pontifical blessing upon the crowd.) "I have been selected to move a vote of thanks to Mr. Waldron for the very picturesque and imaginative address to which we have just listened. There are points in it with which I disagree, and it has been my duty to indicate them as they arose, but none the less Mr. Waldron has accomplished his object well, that object being to give a simple and interesting account of what he conceives to have been the history of our planet. Popular lectures are the easiest to listen to, but Mr. Waldron" (here he beamed and blinked at the lecturer) "will excuse me when I say that they are necessarily both superficial and misleading since they have to be graded to the comprehension of an ignorant audience." (Ironical cheering.) "Popular lectures are in their nature parasitic." (Angry gesture of protest from Mr. Waldron.) "They exploit for fame or cash the work which has been done by their indigent and unknown brethren. One smallest new fact obtained in the laboratory, one brick built into the temple of science, far outweighs any secondhand exposition which passes an idle hour, but can leave no useful result behind it. I put forward this obvious reflection, not out of any desire to disparage Mr. Waldron in particular, but that you may not lose your sense of proportion and mistake the acolyte for the high priest." (At this point Mr. Waldron whispered to the chairman, who half rose and said something severely to his water carrier.) "But enough of this!" (Loud and prolonged cheers.)

"Let me pass to some subject of wider interest. What is the particular point upon which I, as an original investigator, have challenged our lecturer's accuracy? It is upon the permanence of certain types of animal life upon the earth. I do not speak upon this subject as an amateur, for, I may add, as a popular lecturer, but I speak as one whose scientific conscience compels him to adhere closely to facts when I say that Mr. Waldron is very wrong in supposing that because he has never himself seen a so-called prehistoric animal therefore these creatures no longer exist. They are in deed, as he has said, our ancestors, but they are, if I may use the expression, our contemporary ancestors, who can still be found, with all their hideous and formidable characteristics, if one has but the energy and hardihood to seek their haunts. Creatures which were supposed to be Jurassic, monsters who would hunt down and devour our largest and fiercest mammals, still exist." (Cries of "Bosh!" "Prove it!" "How do you know?" "Question!") "How do I know, you ask me? I know because I have visited their secret haunts. I know because I have seen some of them." (Applause, uproar and a voice, "Liar!") "Am I a liar?" (General hearty and noisy assent.) "Did I hear some one say that I was a liar? Will the person who called me a liar kindly stand up that I may know him?" (A voice, "Here he is, sir!" And an inoffensive little person in spectacles, struggling violently, was held up among a group of students.) "Did you venture to call me a liar?" ("No, sir, no!" shouted the accused, and disappeared like a Jack-in-the-box.) "If any person in this hall dares to doubt my veracity I shall be glad to have a few words with him after the lecture." ("Liar!") "Who said that?" (Again the inoffensive one, plunging desperately, was elevated high in the air.) "If I come down among you"—(General chorus of "Come, love, come!" which interrupted the proceedings for some moments, while the chairman, standing up and waving both his arms, seemed to be conducting the music. The professor, with his face flushed, his nostrils dilated and his beard bristling, was now in a proper Berserk mood.) "Every great discoverer has been met with the same incredulity—the sure brand of a generation of fools. When great facts are laid before you you have not the intuition, the imagination which would hold you to understand them. You can only throw mud at the men who have risked their lives to open new fields to science. You persecute the prophets! Galileo, Darwin and I"—(Prolonged cheering and complete interruption.)

AGED GRANDMOTHER

So Weak She Could Hardly Stand—Made Strong by Vinol.

Right here in Gettysburg we have seen such excellent results from Vinol that it is a pleasure to know it is doing so much good for old people in other parts of the country.

Wodbridge, N. J.—"My Grandma was recovering from the grippe and was so weak she could hardly stand, and as she keeps house for my father and myself, she could not get around at all. She had taken cod liver oil and many other medicines, but nothing seemed to do her any good. At last we heard of Vinol and tried it, and Grandma commenced to feel better right away, and got strong very soon, so she gets around as well as ever. We all praise Vinol for it is a splendid medicine." Myrtle H. Bunn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in restoring strength to the aged is because of the rare combination of tonic iron, the curative medicinal extractives of fresh cod's livers, beef peptone and mild native wine. It supplies iron to the blood, quickens the appetite, aids digestion, promotes proper assimilation of food and enriches the blood, and brings back the strength of renewed health. C. Wm. Beales, Prop. of The People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa.

IT'S FOOLISH TO SUFFER

When So Many Gettysburg People are Pointing the Way Out.

You may be brave enough to stand backache or headache or dizziness. But if, in addition, urination is disordered, look out! If you don't try to fix your sick kidneys, you may fall into the clutches of dangerous disease before you know it. But, if you live more carefully and help your kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, you can stop the pains you have and avoid future danger as well. Don't experiment—use the remedy Gettysburg people are publicly endorsing. Read this case:

Mrs. John L. Menchy, 46 Breckenridge St., Gettysburg, says: "Several times in the past I suffered from backache and dizzy headaches. My kidneys acted irregularly. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at The People's Drug Store, gave me such good benefit that I haven't found it necessary to use them in a long time."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Menchy had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

WILSON TO DELAY REPLYING TO NOTE

Watching to See if Germany
Keeps Word.

WILL MAINTAIN SILENCE

There is No Weakening of Confidence
That Danger of Immediate Breach
Has Been Averted.

Washington, May 8.—President Wilson will make no immediate reply to the German submarine note.

For an indefinite period he will maintain a scrupulous silence as to his attitude toward the new German position while the United States observes Germany's submarine operations.

The president will regard this attitude on the part of the American government as a tacit indication of the unsatisfactory character of the German reply. In other words, he would consider that, in the absence of a declarative acknowledgment of the German note, the imperial government would be left to assume that the United States is not prepared to consider the submarine issue closed as a result of the concessions which have been made.

Despite this new disclosure of the president's construction of the significance of his prospective course, there was no weakening of confidence that the danger of an immediate breach had been averted. Indications that the president resents as deeply as any body the insolent language of the first part of the German utterance did not ameliorate the conviction that he had decided that the United States should not sever diplomatic relations at this time.

The respect of the national capital is a singular one as the result of the past few days' developments. These administration officials who are loud in their declarations that Germany has met the American demands and that the president would place himself in a ridiculous position if he severed diplomatic relations have a defensive air. Their arguments appear to be inspired by a soldierly sense of loyalty and not by any enthusiastic feeling.

They seem to realize fully that the administration's "achievement" has aroused no new sentiment of pride in the American people, that it has resulted in no new infusion of virility into Americanism, although it may have afforded a means by which the sacrifices of war may be avoided. The minority, who do not concur in the view that the president should sever the German note, base their attitude upon the fundamental or basic issue involved being negligent of the technical aspects of the present situation.

An uncavilling admission that the German note furnishes a technical basis of adjustment is not held to vitiate the belief that the United States is in the position of dealing with the surface incidents of the war, while overlooking the deeper things. In other words, the feeling had been strong that what was needed for the refreshing of American ideals was that the president should force from Germany evidences of a change of heart.

PRIEST DIES IN CHURCH

Rector of Newark Parish Stricken With Heart Disease.

Newark, N. J., May 8.—Rev. Samuel B. Hedges, rector of St. Bridget's Roman Catholic Church, was found dead in the vestibule of his church.

Father Hedges had just officiated at the first mass and had concluded the second service when he felt ill. Calling his assistant, Father James, to finish the service, after he had appealed to the congregation to make an unusual large contribution to support the gospel, he said he would go into the vestibule for a few moments.

A boy found the priest unconscious. When physicians arrived they pronounced Father Hedges dead from heart disease.

Confesses When Tiny Brother Tells Secret.

Portsmouth, O., May 8.—Eight-year-old George Jordan, who told officials Wednesday that his father, Roy Jordan, killed his mother with a shotgun following a quarrel because she did not get up early enough to get breakfast, has confessed that he shot his mother, officials say.

The officials had brought George, another son, and Fred, a little three-year-old son, before the probate judge and were preparing to ask them some questions; when Fred in innocence and with a pointing hand said: "George, what did you kill my mamma for?" George hung his head and failed to answer. The officials were quick to follow the lead and asked Fred how George killed his mother, and the little chap said: "George killed her with a gun."

The eight-year-old lad, when asked if the accusations made by his baby brother were true, admitted them. He said that he was playing with the shotgun and did not know that it was loaded. He pulled the trigger back and the contents of the gun were discharged into his mother's head. When neighbors found the body of Mrs. Jordan four sons and the father immediately were taken into custody.

The eight-year-old lad then told officials his father had shot his mother because she would not get out of bed to get breakfast. He said his father had sworn at his mother during the quarrel. Thursday the boy and his three brothers were allowed to attend their mother's funeral in custody of the sheriff, but the father was held in jail.

Death in Strike Riot.

Detroit, May 8.—A strike of several hundred employees of the Michigan Alkali company, at Wyandotte, resulted in a clash between strikers and deputy sheriffs. One man, a foreigner, was shot and killed. Six other persons were wounded or bruised. According to Detroit policemen, trouble started when strikers tried to prevent workmen from entering the alkali plant.

Ford Sued for $100,000 for Libel.

Washington, May 8.—The Navy League filed a suit for libel in the district supreme court against Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, asking for $100,000 damages. The suit alleged libel in some of Ford's published statements opposing military preparedness.

The Office and the Man

It is good policy and good business in filling positions in industrial life, to secure the fittest man for the job, this is also true in filling offices in which you make your choice by your vote.

Mr. Brodbeck, who is a Democratic Candidate for nomination of Representative in Congress, Primary to be held May 16th, has demonstrated his fitness to fill the position. He has been a Democrat always; has stood with President Wilson, and what better recommendation can a man have who has had, or is asking to be elected to Congress.

A. R. BRODBECK

Mr. Brodbeck has served the interests of this District unselfishly, and devoted his time and energy in so doing.

At an early age thrown on his own resources, commencing life at that age by working on the farm; successfully filling the position of public school teacher; active and successful in business; a Representative Congressman, it certainly is to your interest to vote for and support him.

Woodrow Wilson as President, has made good. Mr. Brodbeck in Congress made good, and when you fill a job, fill it with the right man.

Your going to the Primary is of the utmost importance. Will you go, its for your own sake?

Jumper Frocks In Good Style.

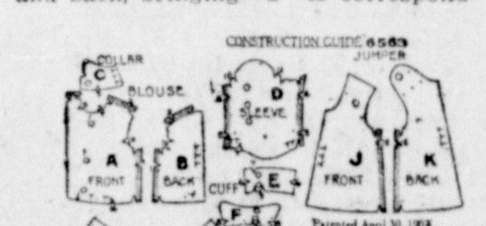

A pleasing combination of plaid and plain linen fashioned into a jumper frock for girls and juniors.

For juniors and girls there are lovely jumper frocks shown for spring wear. This model shows an attractive combination of plaid and plain linen, the skirt and blouse requiring 3 1/2 yards of material and the jumper 2 yards 3/4-inch linen.

The jumper is an ideal model in almost any material to be worn separately with contrasting skirts and gimpes. To make it, first close the under-arms seam as notched. Lap the rounded shoulder edge of back on the front, matching single large and small "o" perforations and close with buttons and buttonholes; finish the edges for a closing.

To make the waist, first close under-arms and shoulder seams as notched. Turn under front edge of front on slot perforations for an underfacing. Center-front is indicated by large "O" perforations. Pleat lower edges of front and back, bringing "T" to corresponding small "o" perforations and tack. Face collar and sew to neck edge, notches, center-fronts and center-backs even; roll high or low as illustrated. Large "O" perforation in collar indicates center-front.

For the sleeve, close seam as notched. Gather lower edge of long sleeve between double "TT" perforations. Close cuff seam as notched, sew to gathered edge of sleeve, notches and seams even. Close seam of turn-over as notched to small "o" perforation, line and sew to cuff as notched, small "o" perforation in turn-over at seam of cuff. Sew sleeve in armhole as notched, small "o" perforation at shoulder seam, easing any fullness.

Now, turn under the edges of the front and back gores of the skirt on slot perforations, lap on side gore to small "o" perforations, corresponding notches even; close seams underneath leaving edges to left of center-front free above large "O" perforation in front gores for an opening; press pleats. Sew to lower edge of blouse, center-fronts, center-backs and notches even.

GRAY HAIR BECOMES
DARK AND BEAUTIFUL

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite
Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drugstore for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The Degeneracy of Modern War

By Captain F. A. MITCHEL

"I don't see how they're going to make stories about this big war in Europe," said the G. A. R. veteran, "when it's all over. What kind of a war is it, anyway? A hundred thousand men march up against a line of trenches defended by rapid fire guns, electric wires and grenades; 60,000 or 70,000 of them are either killed or wounded, while the rest capture a few yards of territory or are driven back without having accomplished anything. You might as well extract romance from the Chicago stockyards or killing day."

The remark was made to a party of men sitting on chairs tilted against the outside of a country store.

"Where's the romance in the war you fit in?" asked an old farmer, taking his pipe out of his mouth and looking at the G. A. R. man doubtfully.

"What is it? Why, that war was brimful of it. It was a war over a big country; there were comparatively few battles; a small amount of tactical fortifications and all the rest was romance. I don't mean girl romance, though there was plenty of that. I mean adventure romance. I was concerned in one of 'em myself. We was layin' quiet in camp, down in Tennessee, one summer's evening, singin' 'When this cruel war is over,' or 'Lo, now' or some other of the romantic war songs of that time, when my captain came along in a hurry, shoutin', 'Any locomotive engineer among you boys?' I said I'd been a fireman on a locomotive and could run a machine to a fair degree. He yanked me off to the general, who asked me a few questions, then told me that the bridge guard across the Tennessee river, twenty miles above us, had been attacked and unless he could get reinforcements there right off the bridge would be taken and burned. This would break our line of communications and we might have to give up a big stretch of country we occupied. He wanted an engineer to take a regiment through to the rescue. The officer commanding the guard had telegraphed that he couldn't hold out much longer, when the wire was cut.

"The train was made up and 400 men were hurrying into the cars. A locomotive was being fired up, and I jumped aboard and took the throttle.

"Well, now, maybe there was nothin' adventurous in that ride! The colonel commanding the regiment and the adjutant were in the cab with me, and it wasn't long before they were made aware of the fact that we were running a gantlet. It was the people along the road who were trying to wreck us that made it amusing. Rounding a curve, I saw about half the length of the train ahead a tie wedged in under the rail. It was too late to stop, but I reversed and waited. There was a thump, but the engine stuck to the track. There were seven out of ten chances that we would have been ditched and most of us in the cab killed or maimed.

"The next amusing occurrence was the rattle of bullets against the cab. Nobody was hurt, but you'd better believe every man ducked, not excepting the colonel.

"But they didn't get the excitement out of it that I did. I was straining my eyes into the darkness ahead with my hand on the throttle, expecting every minute to run up against an obstruction. The shadow of a tree was a log felled across the track; the shadow of a stump was a tie on the rails. And sometimes the obstructions were real. Once I pulled up within a few feet of a log that had been rolled square across the rails. Another time I slowed up before reaching a switch and found that it had been left open to run us up against a brick house. You see, if they hadn't really been tryin' to wreck us there wouldn't 'a been any excitement.

"And if there hadn't been any necessity of goin' at a rapid gait there wouldn't 'a been any fun neither. If we didn't get there in time to save the bridge it meant the retreat of the whole army. So you see I was obliged to let her out, danger or no danger, for if I didn't we wouldn't be in time, and we might as well be wrecked as too late. Besides, if I'd wanted to go slow the colonel, who was at my elbow, wouldn't have allowed it.

"The last obstruction was a post put up on end as a cattle guard only a few miles from the bridge. Seeing that I couldn't stop in time, I put on steam and snapped it off like a twig.

"After passing this we heard firing and knew that the bridge was not yet lost. I blew a long blast on the whistle and heard a distant cheer. When we came near the bridge the colonel ordered me to stop the train in a cut. The men got out and, forming on one side of the cut on high ground, charged down on the attacking force and drove them off.

"Now, that's what I call the romance of war—the adventurous romance. When I got back to camp the general sent for me, and I thought he was goin' to hug me. I never saw a man look so tickled in my life. I'd saved hundreds of square miles of territory."

"What chance has any soldier to do anything like that in this big European slaughter business? I don't blame fellows for not volunteering in such a war. It's like volunteering for certain death without any of the excitement that was so fascinating in the racket we had from '61 to '65."

"How about them fellows fightin' in the sky?" asked a listener.

The G. A. R. man gave no reply.

Close to the Millennium.

This will never be the right kind of a world until people recognize that every nation is entitled to as fair treatment as any other nation.

Get Up Right.

Get up right in the morning. Go to bed right at night. Start with joy in your heart, hope in the future, kindness in your purpose.

If it is a dark day never mind; you will lighten it up. If it is a bright day you will add to the brightness. Give a word of cheer, a kindly greeting and a warm handshake to your friends.

If your enemies look up pass them by, forget and try to forgive. If all of us would bear in mind that happiness is from within and not from without there would be a wellspring of joy in every heart, and the sun would shine forever.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

DRIED FOODS IN CHINA.

An Art in Which the Natives Were Exports Before Our Era.

"In so far as good cooking consists in making the cheap as attractive and delectable as the most expensive, the culinary art in China is far in advance of that of all other nations," writes Wong Chin Foo, a Chinese writer, in the Hotel Gazette.

"In a land so densely populated the cook becomes at an early age an important member of the social economy. Not only the preparation of food for immediate but also for future use is his function. Long before Christ they learned to preserve fruits and vegetables by desiccation, compression, pickling, smoking, souping and candying. They extended and applied these processes to animal tissue. Centuries ago they did what Americans cannot do today—dry clams, oysters and other shellfish until they are as hard as wood and would keep exposed to the air in any climate for years. They similarly desiccate shrimps, crabs, lobsters, flounder, sturgeon and the like so thoroughly that they can use the unboxed goods, if necessary, for ballasting a trading vessel without injuring their quality or flavor.

"A good Chinese cook must confine his expenditures to the limit laid down by his employer—a practice in strong contrast to the loose methods in this country. He can calculate the cost of a meal to within a few cents. He can make an inferior cut of fresh pork resemble the best piece of perfumed pork, so highly prized by his employer or make a mock bird's nest soup, scarcely distinguishable from the real. When the spring market falls in price he will buy a quantity of perishable goods and preserve them to last until the autumn."
